Regular working hours

Regular working hours are 80 hours in a period of two weeks.

Any shift that is shorter than 4 hours and 45 minutes is counted as a full 4-hour and 45 minutes shift and paid for as such.

All waiting time of a driver or assistant en route is paid time, but is not counted as working hours.

Any time when a driver in a loading or unloading line must repeatedly move the vehicle is counted as working hours.

A driver assigned temporarily to duties on a lower pay scale must continue to be paid according to the regular pay scale.

If the workday is at least 8 hours, the employee has a right to two breaks (coffee breaks) whilst working and at a suitable moment whilst carrying out the transport duty.

The working day may not be divided into more than two uninterrupted parts, divided by an unpaid break not longer than one hour in duration. The regulation does not rule out statutory breaks and the use of waiting time.

Granting of rest days for reduced annual working hours

Additional rest days arising from shortening of annual working hours are granted as whole days at the time of the worker's annual holiday or other leave. If a worker has earned 10 such additional rest days, then these must be granted by combining these rest days so that the worker enjoys at least one continuous rest period of five days.

If a worker has earned no fewer than 15 such additional rest days, then these must be granted by combining these rest days so that the worker enjoys at least two continuous rest periods of five days.

Such a continuous period of 5 additional rest days must cover 7 calendar days.

Rest days for reduced annual working hours may be granted to the worker prior to having been earned, if the worker agrees.

Notification of rest days

The worker must be notified of five-day additional rest periods no later than 2 weeks before the rest period begins.

Individual additional rest days are notified in the advance programme of working hours or, where no such programme of working hours is prepared, no later than 2 weeks before the rest period begins.

Are you receiving all the work and wage benefits provided by the agreement?

Also several other questions concerning your interests have been agreed in the collective labour agreements. Are you receiving all the benefits?

AKT's local trade union branch whose member you are or the union's local office will give you more information on the effective collective labour agreements.

Has a representative been chosen to supervise the interests of the worker at your work place?

The status, rights and liabilities of a representative have been agreed in the collective labour agreement. The representative has a better employment protection than other workers based on the Law and the collective labour agreement. The representative is the most important contact person between the work place, the local trade union branch and the union.

Education and leisure time activity

AKT offers its members versatile education activity in different sectors of society and is developing the activity further in cooperation with local trade union branches.

Similarly, AKT and local union branches offer exceedingly good possibilities for recreation and leisure activities at functions and locations, which they also often cover the costs for.

Only organised transport sector workers are able to look after their interests – together with the union.
